Reagan Proposes Aid Cut

President Reagan's fiscal year 1985 budget proposals contain a number of items that concern Marian College and the higher education community nationally. Chief among these is a request to eliminate funding for nearly 800,000 financial-assistance awards to undergraduate and graduate students.

The Action Committee for Higher Education, a coalition of Washington-based higher education groups that serve as an information clearinghouse on U.S. student aid programs, has prepared the following list of Fiscal Year '85 budget proposals that would impact on higher education:

--The President's Fiscal Year '85 budget would cut federal need-based student aid programs by a total of $326 million, eliminating some 797,000 awards to undergraduate and graduate students. Above five million of the nation's 12 million students currently receive financial aid. Funding for need-based programs would drop from $3.976 billion to $3.650 billion.

--The budget proposes no funding for: Supplemental Grants (currently funded at $375 million), a program which provided grants to students as selected by a school; National Direct Student Loans (currently $161 million in federal capital contributions), a program which provides low-interest loans to students with the federal government putting up about 90 percent of the capital; State Student Incentive Grants (currently funded at $76 million), a program which encourages the creation of state scholarship programs for needy students by providing funds which the states match and reallocate to their campuses; Graduate Student Fellowships (currently funded at $14 million).

Other programs would be revamped in the President's budget; a brief outline follows:

--Pell Grants, the basic federal student grant program, would be funded at the current level ($2.8 billion). College Work Study, which provides campuses with the funds to pay for student work opportunities would be increased from $550 million to $850 million, but taxation rates on discretionary family income would be increased and the student would be expected to contribute a minimum of $500 toward educational costs before qualifying for a grant.

--Guaranteed Student Loans would be revised to require a needs test for all recipients. Currently, a needs test is only required of applicants with family incomes over $30,000.

--The budget also proposes to cut in half the TRIO programs, which provide vital services to encourage college attendance and retention of disadvantaged students. The program currently is funded at $165 million.

--Also proposed for elimination are: the Cooperative Education Program, which permits students to get work experience while attending school (currently funded at $14 million); foreign language and area studies programs, which encourage international studies (currently funded at $31 million); and veterans cost of instruction programs, which assist institutions in providing education to veterans.

Huge Success

Hats off to all of the students, staff, faculty, volunteers, and Alumni that helped to make this year's annual phone-a-thon a huge success!!

All of those involved were rewarded with a very nice banquet this past Mon. night. Those honored for individual achievements include the Doyle Hall Council who brought in the most money during a single night. The Council received $3,587 in pledged money. Members working for the Doyle Hall Council included Dennis Moore, Steve Stout, Kenny Schafer, Mike Shanahan, Paul Theil, and Rick Walke. The individuals honored for obtaining the largest new donation (from an Alumni who has never donated before) was Cindy Niehaus. Marci Malcolm received the largest increased donation from last year, while Diane Terry and Deana McIntire tied for working the most nights. Diane and Deana both worked four nights during the phone-a-thon.

Much thanks and appreciation goes out to Sister Ruth Forthofer who spent countless hours coordinating volunteers for the event. According to Alumni Director Denise Brennan, "We couldn't have done it without the help of numerous volunteers."

The annual phone-a-thon is the single most effective fund-raising event sponsored by the Alumni Office. At the present, over $22,000 in pledges have been received by the Alumni Office. For being very early in the fund-drive year, the amount received is very encouraging with the total donation amount expected to go much higher before the year is over.

SWEETHEARTS '84

Valentine's Day. Originally intended to commemorate the martyrdom of Saint Valentine, has taken on additional significance through the centuries. Today, it is thought of as a day of romance which that certain someone (if he knows what's good for him) had better not forget.

Here at Marian, it is easy to remember simply by attending Sweethearts Dance 1984 to be held Saturday, February 11 from 8:00 p.m. until 12 midnight at the Allison Mansion.

This year's theme is "Faithfully". Tickets are $9.00 per couple and include pictures which will be taken from 8 to 9 p.m.

The band is "Special Purpose". Dancing will in the Marble room (Aviary), refreshments will be served in the hallway, and tables will be in the Music room. The dance is being sponsored by the Sophomore Class.

Editor's Letter

We'd like to take this opportunity to re-state some of our goals and briefly remind everyone of our editorial policies.

Last semester we stated our belief that, as a student publication, the CARBON is dedicated to promoting open communication between the students and administration as well as among the student body as a unit.

To effectively meet this goal we "invented" the Exercise Your Write column. This little creation was based on the simple philosophy that people need and want to express their opinions, and in order to help them we provided this space. It goes without saying though, that there must be some guidelines to the use of this column. The policy we have applied is as follows:

- * All articles submitted must be signed, although names can be withheld upon request.
- * Use of foul language is prohibited.
- * The publication of letters is up to the discretion of the editors.
- * Articles should be based on fact and contain no slanderous remarks.
- * Also, all articles will be printed as submitted (watch your spelling, WE AREN'T).

We don't believe that these guidelines are unreasonable; but if you feel differently let us know by "Exercising Your Write."

KNIGHTS IN ACTION

by: MO & POO

MEN'S SPORTS

The men had a barnburner against Purdue Calumet last Saturday. Purdue was up by 5 with 20 seconds left to go in the game. Marian dwindled this lead to 1 with 4 seconds left on the clock. A turnover by Purdue gave the ball back to the Knights and an excellent pass from Chris Craney to Dave Mahurin put the Knights up by 1 with 2 seconds left. Time ran out before the Lakers could score and this gave Marian a 64-63 victory.

The Knights traveled to Wabash last Wednesday and were defeated 67-58.

The men travel to IUPUI tomorrow night, so everyone take a short road trip to the Natatorium and cheer the guys on to a

VICTORY

GOOD LUCK FELLOWS!!

WOMEN'S SPORTS

Congratulations to the Women's B-ball team on their 5 game winning streak!

The Lady Knights' streak started on Parent's Day against Indiana Tech. who like St. Joe, Earlham, St. Francis, and Manchester all fell to defeat against the awesome Women.

Manchester was rated high in the NAIA district, and they gave the Knights a good game. Marian was ahead by 10 at the half, but Manchester came out strong and tied the score. Playing with determination, the women pulled ahead and won the game 71-65.

Congratulations to DeeAnn Ramey who made the NAIA District Player of the Week. She is the first Marian College basketball player to receive this honor. She went 19-19 from the free throw line, had 35 points, 12 assists, nine steals and 6 rebounds in three games.

The women are on the road this week-end. They play Valparaiso tonight and then travel to South Bend to take on St. Mary's of Notre Dame. GOOD LUCK LADIES!!!

MARTIAN GET PHYSICAL

by: Jac & Mac

Intramurals are really rolling now! Men's basketball is so exciting and rough!!! Bill 'Walt' Riley won the demolition derby this week when he tried to wreck one of the gym walls. Hope you're feeling better Walt. The band-aid crew was called out again the other night when Troy Barnes tried to immitate Joe Frazier. Nice scar!

At this time the standings are: FBI and Fu Bar at 4-0, the Rejects and the Good Ole Boys at 3-1, C.B. and Thi at 2-2, Staff and Johnson at 1-3, and Furman and Taps at 0-4. We'd like to point out that Staff has won it's first game ever in it's three year history. We'd also like to express our disappointment in Furman with their 0-4 record. In the words of a very wise man, "They couldn't whip butter right now."

A lot of spirit was shown this week in Women's Intramural volleyball. The Lite Spikers had the best promotional signs thanks to an injured player Jennice Chaney, and the Lite Spikers also displayed the play of the week when Paula "Poo" Frounfelker and her ½ vertical jump blocked what would have been an otherwise ace spike from Liz Gilmore. Go Poo! That's what intramurals are all about, sacrificing your body for the sport. Speaking of sacrificing your body, our utmost admiration goes to Joan 'Mike' Miller of the PYT's who became a part of the bleachers while trying to save a misshit ball. Fortunately, Joan is beginning to get some feeling back into her knees. The Lite spikers ended-up defeating the PYT's in two games.

Now for the standings. Senioritis, Kool Aid Kids, and the Lite Spikers are at 2-0. The Dufers, Spiked Punch, and the PYT's are at 1-1. The MCFU's and the TP'ers are at 2-0. The WCC's are 0-1. Pretty Skarey is 0-1, but they still have to finish their game with the 0-0 Fumble Fingers team this week. That game was cut short when the batting cage net fell down. Sorry Girls! (Editors Note-Happy Valentine's Day to all this years intramurals teams and to the best Intramurals Director anyone could ask for, Mike Henderson!)

THE LIGHTER SIDE

By Jackie Bagosy

Ordinarily, the mere mention of Valentine's Day sends me reeling into depression. It was one of those pseudo-holidays that I celebrated with a fervor second only to that I elicit on Ground Hog's Day and on Arbor Day. However this year was going to be different. I had found Mr. Right, or so I thought...

Our meeting was something short of fate. We first met in a smoke-filled room; the air was so sweet and so very pungent. I have to admit, it was truly love at first sight!

I was captivated by his manner, his charm. He was a perfect gentleman, so debonair and suave. I was in a trance when his words called out to me, "Come out, Virginia." (So he got my name wrong--only a minor detail!) I closed my eyes savoring the moment as he crooned a romantic tune. I sighed (not breathed mind you, but sighed) heavily as he confessed eternal love despite my multiple chin problem and my facial hair. I mean this guy loved me just the way I was!! I was an Innocent woMan--oh yes, I was. He just had this way of talking. Don't ask what it was, but I had to laugh when he revealed me!

I was carried away by his voice; so carried away, in fact, I failed to realize we were not alone. As the fog, that had permeated my sense of reality dissipated,

I became aware of some 19,000 others. The scent upon which I basked earlier was, I realized, the product of 18,999 marijuana cigarettes. I awoke to discover that I had, indeed, spent $15 on a Billy Joel ticket.

I immediately scanned the multitudes of intruders who had so rudely interrupted my personal tete. I was in search of--the other woman! Where was that Uptown Snob! OK--so she's beautiful, I give her that. But my mom always told me, "Being ugly isn't all that bad. It's what's on the inside." (My mother always was one for building self-confidence!)

My eyes bulged, only slightly more than my beloved's when he actually had the audacity to mention Her! I stormed from the arena. In a fit that made Mr. T look like my grandmother, I flew to the back of the stage. I longed to meet Christie--face to face--fist to nose. However, I was stopped only by two rather robust gentlemen who inquired somewhat insistently as to my desination. Humbled by their impressing personages, I returned to my seat--Aisle 87, Row ZZZ. I fully intended to let Billy know exactly how I felt! I was through with that Big Shot! I couldn't take the Pressure any longer! It was over. I woke up. I made up my mind. Once again, I would become the Stranger.....but not until I had just one clear shot at that face--that covergirl face....

Straight From The Heart

Recently I was interviewing a group of children in a card shop on their feelings on Valentine's Day. Some of their answers may remind you of your childhood romances.

When I asked them what Valentine's Day was, Mary replied that it was when "We take our hearts out of our body and give it to the one we love." Debbie replied that it was "When we get candy." "When you send your Mommy and Daddy and your boyfriend (um, um, um) candy and tell 'em you love 'em, almost as much as your puppy", so Janie says. Stevie was a little more forward, he said "I think, I think it is a time when you give your girlfriend or boyfriend a big kiss." When asked who her boyfriend was, Janie said, "I can't tell you, but he has blue eyes."

When I asked them if they had a sweetheart, Quartermaine said, "I like this one girl, her name is Zacqualynn." Debbie said, "Yes, his name is Todd Keasling, he's in the kindergarten." When asked if their Mommy or Daddy was their Valentine, Mary answered that "My Daddy is, but my puppy is in second place." Quartermaine said, "No it's Zacquelynn," and Debbie simply said, "Yes."

I also inquired as to what they were going to give their sweetheart. Mary said she was going to give them "my blanket for two nights." Janie is going all out, she said, "I'm going to give him a diamond ring and a fur coat." Stevie's came from the bottom of his heart, he said, "I am going to give her a bag of M & M's and make her eat all the green ones."

Retraction

This is a retraction of the humor article, "Alcohol? At Marian? No?" which I wrote for last week's CARBON. It seems that quite unintentionally, I have offended some members of the Marian community although my intention was solely to entertain.

The article was based on nothing of which I have seen, heard, or felt. Nor was I criticizing the administration.

I hope that all will accept my sincere apology for any offense or harm this might have caused. My only intention was to entertain the readers of the CARBON - not to cause a controversy.

NOTICE

The Art Club is now accepting silk-screen design projects. Contracts will be available in the faculty mailroom. Just return completed contracts to Sr. Sandra or Patrice Will.

Please, we must stress that we need at LEAST a two week deadline excluding vacation time. If you can allow us even more time on a project, that helps us out too. It provides us with more time to get designs approved by both Sr. Sandra and the persons that commission the design. We can also order special supplies that the different projects require.

We're happy to work these projects into our schedules. It gives us valuable experience in addition to our required art classes. We also feel that this is a valuable service our club can provide Marian College, and we want to keep the communication lines open. Therefore this notice is including a list of sample prices, and also names to contact.
